Symmetries of the Sublime

“My work is an investigation of the ineffable beauty and sublimity of our universe. It signals the fierce and astonishing realities of life and existence.”

Core Club, 66 East 55th street, NYC 10022

Viewing open to members and by appointment.

Amy Myers (b. 1965, Austin, TX) is a New York-based artist whose superbly delineated abstract paintings and drawings take their inspiration from a childhood spent engaging in the study of and conversations about the nature of the universe, particle physics, biology, philosophy and the human mind. Like sound waves or water ripples, Myers' undulating, converging, diaphanous symmetries are visual harmonies of our mysterious universe. The fundamentally unpredictable nature of the universe at the particle level and “the constant changing nature of all things drives my work and guides my process.”
